Spartanburg sits between Charlotte and Atlanta at the intersection of I-85 and I-26, a short drive from a handful of international airports, it's a breeze to get here.

Taking a trip? In town for a tournament? Doing business in the Burg? Looking for your next place to land?

Well, we're happy to say you've come to the right place for ideas and inspiration. Over the last decade, Spartanburg has grown into a remarkable destination home to a mix of thriving communities worthy of your treasured time.

We hope this guide of local favorites helps you to see yourself in Spartanburg. Just remember: we're growing more and more every day, so by the time you're reading this there will be even more to see, do, experience, and taste than just the places we mention here.

The Heart of HUB CITY

Sparkle City Mini Putt

Borrow a putter and golf ball (for free!) from Hub City Scoops.

Monikered as the hub city for its position at the intersection of southern commerce, Downtown Spartanburg offers vibrant arts, a variety of unique boutiques, and a blossoming dining scene.

A T THE HEART of South Carolina's Hub City sits Downtown Spartanburg, a blossoming destination with homegrown restaurants, retail, and art on every corner. The picturesque streets of Downtown Spartanburg are livelier than ever. Crosswalks adorned with the bright colors of local artists join an array of public art and live music. Beautiful hotels welcome visitors as more than 2,200 new housing units allow space for Spartanburg's flourishing population. Corporate headquarters are moving to Downtown Spartanburg, too, joining an ecosystem of unique small businesses to create a humming economic engine.

Spartanburg's centerpiece, Morgan Square, is an energetic space to dine, gather, and experience our vibrant city. Morgan Square plays host to seasonal entertainment, bustling events, and a selection of shops and restaurants. Take a seat in our pedestrian plaza and soak in the sights and sounds of Spartanburg.

From Morgan Square, you can go any direction you choose.

Head down to the Grain District to taste Son of A Peach, Rockers Brewing Co. signature brew, and explore a mix of bars and restaurants. On your way, be sure to pop into Hub City Bookshop, named one of the best bookstores in the South by Southern Living.

For a city you've probably never considered before, it is awfully charming.

FOOD & WINE

If you're looking for international flavors, Magnolia Street is the place to be. For a peaceful lunch on a pedestrian street, set your sights on Wall Street.

Many of Spartanburg's unique boutiques are a short walk up E. Main Street. Whether you're looking for a Spartanburg souvenir, a new outfit for a night on the town, or specialty gear for your outdoor adventure, you'll find it here. Along the way, be sure to stop for ice cream or coffee, or even a free round of Sparkle City Mini Putt!

At the end of E. Main Street you'll be able to hop onto The Dan, Spartanburg's urban trail system.

Head left to reach a hub for all things art and the heart of the Downtown Cultural District. Chapman Cultural Center is home to theatrical and musical performances on a level you'd expect to find in a bigger city, galleries galore, Spartanburg Science Center and the contemporary Spartanburg Art Museum.

To the right, you'll reach the Mary Black Rail Trail, Spartanburg's most popular trail, complete with a trailside park, a dog park, a bike park, and several stops for a tasty bite or beverage. It's a perfect first taste of Spartanburg's many lush outdoor amenities.

Find locally published titles at Hub City Bookshop (above). Take the Hub City Hopper from Downtown to the Mary Black Rail Trail (below).

Hub City MURAL TOUR

A collection of eclectic, colorful murals is helping put the art in SpARTanburg. Many of these murals make for an ideal selfie spot or shareable moment!

ESPERANZA MURAL

On the side of the downtown Starbucks, a mural emphasizing the importance of mental health care features a QR code leading to local resources.

"CALL IT" MURAL

J.C. Stroble, the longtime order-caller at The Beacon, is immortalized in the "Call It" Mural just outside downtown. The Union Street mural was designed by Abe Titus and Aimee Wise.

100 WOMEN MURAL

Lucy Boland's 100 Women Mural fills a space across from Spartanburg City Hall, with a white background and colorful lines leading to sketches of three women.

THE ISHMAEL MURAL

The most colorful mural Spartanburg has to offer is by artists Ishmael and Rob Yamabushi. Part of a larger graffiti wall, the mural features a colorful, psychedelic-like design with a mustachioed, top hat-wearing head.

HOPE IN THE BURG MURAL

The HOPE in the Burg mural on Dunbar Street, organized by local artists Stephen Long, Jeremy Kemp, and 75 volunteers, acts as a sign of encouragement for anyone needing a bit of hope.

LOVE WHERE YOU LIVE MURAL

The Love Where You Live mural in Downtown Spartanburg, inspired by Hub Bub's Love Where You Live campaign, sits across the street from the Daniel Morgan Clock Tower.

BLACK LIVES MATTER MURAL

In 2020, 16 local artists came together to paint the message Black Lives Matter on Broad Street in front of City Hall to show support for the Black residents and businesses of Spartanburg.

CREATIVE CROSSWALKS

The Creative Crosswalks add colorful, geometric designs to the intersections of: Main and King streets, Main and Spring streets, and Main and Magnolia streets. The vivid crosswalks were painted by local artists Michael Webster, Matthew Donaldson, Frankie Zombie and Adrian Meadows.

The Art in SPARTANBURG

ON THE STAGE

When it comes to the stage, everyone tells us that Spartanburg punches above its weight class.

If you've never snagged tickets to a show at Chapman Theatre, you're in for a delightful surprise. The theatre itself is stunning, but that all fades away once the show begins.

Dubbed an SC Theatre of Distinction, Spartanburg Little Theatre has performed favorite titles for 75 years, often selling out musicals and productions, as well as offering a youth theatre for budding actors.

Spartanburg Philharmonic fills the venue with sounds of classical orchestra music, bluegrass, and even eclectic popular pieces.

Another award-winning organization, Ballet Spartanburg brings professional dancers to the stage, with its popular seasonal The Nutcracker held in Twichell Auditorium due to demand.

Built in 1899, Twichell Auditorium is housed in Converse University's Zimmerli Performance Center, and hosts concerts and operas by Converse's Petrie School of Music as well as guest performances.

For traveling shows and comedy tours, check out Spartanburg Memorial Auditorium.

ON VIEW

Head off the streets and into the galleries laced throughout Spartanburg.

If it's the finer things you like, plan to visit TJC Gallery. Home to the Johnson Collection and often host to regional and institutional partnerships, TJC illuminates the rich history and diverse cultures of the American South. This private collection is shared with the public beyond TJC gallery, too, with pieces on display at the AC Hotel Spartanburg, Spartanburg Library and OneSpartanburg, Inc. Visitor Center.

Another impressive collection can be seen for free at Wofford College's Richardson Family Art Museum, along with a diverse offering of rotating exhibitions.

The world's greatest modern art where you least expect to find it.

For contemporary art, Spartanburg Art Museum is a must-see. The museum lives up to its tagline of #smallmuseumbigart, with engaging, thought-provoking exhibitions changing throughout the year. Housed in Chapman Cultural Center, it's easy to pop over to the Upstate Gallery and the Artists' Guild of Spartanburg for more.

To meet local artists, head to Mayfair Art Studios or Artists Collective Spartanburg. In a renovated 1900s mill, Mayfair hosts resident creatives, monthly open studios, bold exhibits, and a graffiti park. In a repurposed 20,000 sq. ft. church, Artists Collective is home to more than 50 local artists and 32 studios. There's a gallery shop, monthly exhibitions, and juried shows.

SOUNDS of the South

Some of the south's most iconic sounds in gospel, country, bluegrass, and rock can trace their lineage right back to Spartanburg.

THERE'S NO BETTER WAY to immerse yourself in Spartanburg's musical history than the Spartanburg Music Trail, a 30-minute, self-guided tour winding through the Downtown Cultural District.

Nearly 200 years of music history is showcased on the Music Trail, from "Singin'" Billy Walker, who published a novice-friendly book that allowed choirs to learn hymns without learning to read music, to Spartanburg's own Marshall Tucker Band. The Music Trail features many more interesting artists, connections to music history, and more, but we won't spoil it for you here.

Between local teams competing and countywide facilities attracting regional and national tournaments, Spartanburg’s prowess as a sports hub is growing—and there are even some ways you can get in on the action.

A WHEELEY GOOD TIME

The Southeast is the land of football tailgates (and we’ll get there), but Spartanburg bucks this trend a bit by going all-in on a series of twilight bicycle races held each year, taking over downtown.

The Spartanburg Regional Healthcare System Criterium, popularly known as The CRIT, swarms the city as part of U.S. Cycling Speed Week. Riders from across the U.S. of all age and skill levels participate in CRIT series races from the afternoon until well after sunset, all for the delight of thousands who set up tailgate tents, food and drinks, and take in all the action.

Another cycling tradition, Spartanburg also hosts two of the toughest cycling climbs east of the Mississippi River—the Assaults on Mt. Mitchell and Mt. Marion—grueling cycling races featuring steep uphill treks.

FIVE-STAR FACILITIES

Spartanburg is home to a multitude of indoor and outdoor venues that attract regional and national sports events and tournaments in softball, baseball, soccer, basketball, volleyball, and cross-country, among others.

From the Tyger River Park, with 13 fields, playground, walking paths and more, to the Milliken Arboretum, which has hosted NCAA Division I, II, and III cross-country events, our county’s got the attention of youth and collegiate sports planners and organizations.

COLLEGE SPORTS

Touchdowns with the Wofford Terriers, homeruns with the SMC Pioneers, goals with the Converse Valkyries, and dunks with the USC Upstate Spartans, it’s almost always college sports season in Spartanburg. Spartanburg is a College Town, after all, home to seven higher-education institutions.

HIGH SCHOOL AND YOUTH SPORTS

The county is home to seven school districts, with nine high schools in total, each of which claim their own dedicated and passionate fanbases. Friday nights in the fall are special in Spartanburg, with high school football often being the talk of the town.

But each of those nine high schools sports competitive teams in an array of sports like baseball and softball, basketball, cross-country and track-and-field, volleyball, soccer, tennis, and many more.

The Great OUTDOORS

CROFT STATE PARK

THERE ARE COUNTLESS PLACES in Spartanburg to enjoy the great outdoors, but one place in particular offers an impressive roster of activities.

Croft State Park, often referred to by locals as Camp Croft, got its start as a U.S. Army training base during World War II. The 7,054 acres of rolling terrain just five miles from Downtown Spartanburg is the perfect place for biking, hiking, fishing, boating and horseback riding.

The park's centerpiece, Lake Craig is complete with a boat launch, rentals, a new fishing pier, and a paved perimeter trail perfect for strolling.

Head into the woods and you'll find paths that can be shared by horse, biker and hiker, as well as dedicated paths for each. Horseback riders can explore 20+ miles of equestrian trails, mountain bikers can ride thrilling twists, turns, and jumps, and hikers can choose from easy to moderately difficult terrain. The most notable trails, Fairforest Creek Trail showcases Croft's tranquil beauty, and Croft Passage, a peaceful segment of South Carolina's Palmetto Trail, winds through the park.

So we invite you, come to Croft State Park to disconnect, unwind, and breathe in the fresh upstate air. Make it a day trip or choose to stay under the stars in the camping & RV areas.

Building THE DAN

The Daniel Morgan Trail System connects tourism, health, and economic & community development.

by Brittany Mulligan

Mary Black Rail Trail

#1 Best U.S. City for Cyclists

BEST LIFE

WHEN IT COMES to outdoor activities, The Daniel Morgan Trail System (or The Dan as it is commonly referred) offers everything for individuals and families who enjoy spending time outside in Spartanburg.

The Dan consists of 55 miles of existing and proposed trails using an urban trail network from the Pacolet River to the North Tiger.

In late 2021, Spartanburg County was awarded a $23.8 million Rebuilding American Infrastructure with Sustainability & Equity (RAISE) grant by the U.S. Department of Transportation. With the grant, The Dan will be expanded with almost 15 miles of installed multi-use pathway, a pedestrian/bicycle bridge over a major roadway, approximately four intersection/roadway crossing improvements and around five prefabricated pedestrian bridges. "The Dan, like many other developments in Spartanburg, connects tourism, health, and economic and community development projects. And The Dan will lead to more trailside development," said Katherine O'Neill, OneSpartanburg, Inc. chief economic development officer.

Additions, like Fretwell's dining and recreational area and Clifton Mill's multi-family development, are exciting updates for residents and visitors alike.

Top 5 THINGS TO DO ON THE DAN

When organizing your day on The Dan, Executive Director of PAL Spartanburg, Laura Ringo, has a few recommendations in mind.

BUTTERFLY BRANCH GREENWAY

“A segment of The Dan on the City’s Northside, and it’s a great walk along a creek,” Ringo said. “People can also go to the farmers market, which is open every Saturday morning. It’s an easy walk that can take you to a picturesque bridge connecting the farmers market to the trail.”

THE MARY BLACK FOUNDATION RAIL TRAIL

A 2.6-mile trail perfect for walkers, runners, and cyclists, the Rail Trail is Spartanburg’s most-used outdoor amenity. Along the Rail Trail you can find the Vic Bailey Subaru Bike Park, the Carolina Panthers NFL Play 60 playground, Flock Shop, the Rail Tail Dog Park, and much more.

GLENDALE SHOALS PRESERVE

Nature observers will appreciate the plant, animal, and bird life along the trail at Glendale Shoals.

“There’s a beautiful, iron bridge that’s been restored and the shoals are beautiful to look at,” Ringo said. “On a hot summer day, they’re fun to play in. It’s really enjoyed by the community.”

MARY H. WRIGHT GREENWAY

If you’re looking to plan a gathering, Ringo recommends taking advantage of the Mary H. Wright Greenway. On the city’s south side, it’s a one-mile segment that ends in a playground and pavilion. Rumor has it, Ringo added, “that the park features the fastest slide in any playground around Spartanburg.”

RIVER BIRCH TRAIL

The Dan’s newest addition, the River Birch Trail alongside Lawson’s Fork Creek, will be expanding by another mile this summer. It offers plenty of space for walking, running and riding. The expansion will form a connection to another popular segment, the Drayton Mills trails.

Glendale Shoals Preserve

Fretwell

REINVESTING IN THE COMMUNITY

JUST OUTSIDE of the Mary Black Rail Trail is a two-acre development called Fretwell, a retail and restaurant collective that blends the beautiful outdoors with a unique experience using the buildings surrounding it. Little River’s newest location has expanded its services to offer breakfast and lunch.

Alongside Little River Roasting is a 1954 Spartan Manor, which is similar to an airstream, that has been permanently affixed as a concessions trailer. It serves food, beverages, beer, popsicles, and ice cream among many other delectable treats. Laura Stille, a Fretwell partner, noted that trails have proved to be a catalyst for revitalizing formerly depressed areas, like Fretwell, which featured many vacant and unused spaces.

Development at Fretwell is repurposing some of the former material found on location, like designing seating planters out of the concrete excavated for the Little River building. A huge concrete foundation where the planters are was at one time a foundation for a former cotton gin in the early 1900s. Fretwell decided to keep it to serve as a spot for food trucks and other vendors such as an artisan market, farmers market, or even to host a pop-up show.

“Our main goal is to create a unique and beautiful gathering space, focusing on the outdoors,” Stille said. “We talked to our architects about wanting the buildings to complement the space. We want that gathering space to foster community and capitalize on our year-round great weather. There’s a lot of to serve Clifton Park beachgoers, and improvements to a small playground and parking lot.

Construction is expected to be completed by late summer of 2024.

“The project is revitalizing a textile mill site that is currently an unattractive reminder of the community’s economic loss when the mill closed,” said Jennifer Gosnell of the M Peters Group. “The grass and space to play outdoor games, sit and listen to music, enjoy a cup of coffee or eat.”

We want Fretwell to foster community and capitalize on our year-round great weather.

Another area of development is Clifton Mill Number Two, which will transform the former mill site into private and public use through a partnership between Spartanburg County and M Peters Group, an upstate real estate development company. The former mill site will be turned into a multi-family development of 240 modern market rate units, accompanied by improved public park and river access, public facilities mill villages retain enormous pride in their history, but the economic loss was devastating. Re-investing in this community by building housing, a restaurant, improving the public park, and connecting it to downtown with The Dan is good for job growth and therefore the economic growth of Spartanburg’s east side.”

With these exciting developments in progress and coming soon to The Dan, residents and visitors have a lot to take advantage of when planning their next adventure in Spartanburg.

CLIFTON BEACH RIVER ACCESS
239 Goldmine Rd, Spartanburg SC 29307

THERE ARE FEW better ways to connect to the outdoors in Spartanburg than by tackling our county's rivers.

Whether it's a summertime trek down the cooling waters of the Tyger River or taking a moment to enjoy the fall foliage during the end of the season on the Pacolet River, Spartanburg's blueways offer something for all interest and skill levels.

Often described as the area's original highway system, Spartanburg's blueways are geographically-accessible from across the county, making it a popular outdoor opportunity for many. And not only is it geographically-accessible, it's more accessible to all ability levels than ever before.

Designed to make the Tyger River more accessible to all, kayakers, paddlers, and canoers were gifted two new access points along the river in 2019, at Tygerberry Landing in Duncan and at Inman's Lake Cooley Park. Both launch points feature Americans with Disabilities Act-compliant docks and kayak launches, new parking areas, nature trails, and water-front seating.

The Tyger River and its three branches are prime for families and paddlers. But there's also the Enoree River, launch points along the popular Pacolet River, and Lawson's Fork, each of which provide access to Broad River.

In fact, it's possible to start paddling in Spartanburg County and continue until you reach the Atlantic Ocean. Expert local kayakers estimate the journey would take five to six days at top-speed, but would be closer to 10 or 11 if you were to enjoy the scenery.

The Pacolet River runs more than 50 miles from near Downtown Spartanburg to the small Union County town of Lockhart. A popular, four-mile paddle route from Clifton Beach to Goldmine Road, on the eastern side of Spartanburg County, includes Class I and Class II rapids, and averages about two hours to complete.

Along with flowing waters and mild rapids, the county's blueway system abounds with wildlife viewing opportunities.

Species of waterfowl like ducks, blue heron, osprey, and even the national symbol of the U.S., the bald eagle, can be found as you wind your way down Spartanburg's rivers. And for anglers, the waterways are often stocked with fish like crappie, bream, and even some largemouth bass.

Whether you're standing on a paddleboard, slicing through the water on a kayak, or just relaxing as you cast your reel and enjoying the scenery, Spartanburg County's blueways have adventure opportunities at-the-ready for you.

SPARTAN Burger TRAIL

the BURG'S BEST BURGERS

There's only you, your tastebuds, and a long list of drool-worthy burgers to bite in to.

spartanburgertrail.com

featured RESTAURANTS

BURGÄR

WHY YOU SHOULD GO Burgär is new to the Spartanburg scene bringing flavors you don't typically find on burgers to everyone's favorite bunned creation from right along Main Street downtown.

WHAT YOU SHOULD GET El Southwest Burgar, topped with poblano pepper, pickled jalapeno, crispy onions, avocado, and chipotle sauce.

BURGERS & BAKERY

WHY YOU SHOULD GO This homey burger spot on Spartanburg's Westside features a host of specialty burgers, usually named after their creators, served up on scratch-made buns (including a fiery Hot and Spicy bun).

WHAT YOU SHOULD GET The Big Tony Double Cheddar Cheeseburger with a split grilled red link sausage, bacon, & pepperoni.

CHEF AE'S

WHY YOU SHOULD GO Chef Ae's is proudly on the other side of the train tracks in Spartanburg. Chef Ae Zavala, born in Thailand, brings Thai and other unique flavors to burgers and sandwiches on her menu.

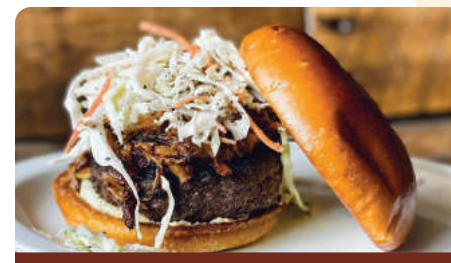

WHAT YOU SHOULD GET The Bistro Burger, with double patties, gouda cheese, bacon jam, lettuce, tomato, pickle, and Japanese mayo on a brioche bun.

CLAUDIO'S BISTRO

WHY YOU SHOULD GO This steakhouse-style bistro in up-and-coming Downtown Woodruff showcases a comfortable, family-style dining room, expertly-cooked beef and shellfish, and some truly delectable burgers.

WHAT YOU SHOULD GET The Hot Sensation Burger (Angus beef, blue cheese, bacon, buffalo sauce, lettuce, tomato and onion on a Brioche bun)

MAIN STREET PUB

WHY YOU SHOULD GO Part bar, part barbecue restaurant, Main Street Pub is popular at all times of day for its cold beers, hot wings and customizable burgers and side options.

WHAT YOU SHOULD GET Whatever you want! Burgers at Main Street Pub come with dozens of topping options so you can have it however you'd like.

SUGAR-N-SPICE

WHY YOU SHOULD GO Opened in 1961 as a drive-in, Sugar 'N Spice has only changed its menu once, to add souvlaki, a Greek, grilled chicken dish. Otherwise, this generational favorite is still serving up signature burgers, hot dogs, sandwiches and salads.

WHAT YOU SHOULD GET The Jumbo Cheeseburger (two patties with cheese, tomato, onion, lettuce, served with fries or onion rings)

CRIBB'S KITCHEN

WHY YOU SHOULD GO This Downtown Spartanburg staple knows all about burgers, and has hosted an annual Burger Cook-Off for years, with each year's winner being added to the menu.

WHAT YOU SHOULD GET The Belly Dancer (2019 Cribb's Burger Cook-Off Winner) (Topped with crispy pork belly, slaw, wasabi aioli and a sweet soy glaze)

NEW GROOVE ARTISAN BREWERY

WHY YOU SHOULD GO Started by two homebrewers chasing their passion, it has established itself as a go-to hangout spot in Boiling Springs.

WHAT YOU SHOULD GET The Smokehouse Burger, topped with cheddar, barbecue sauce and crispy, fried onion.

THE HARE AND HOUND

WHY YOU SHOULD GO Another popular restaurant, the vibes at The Hare and the Hound, a Downtown Landrum mainstay, can best be summed up by a sign in front of its door: "good food, good beer, good times."

WHAT YOU SHOULD GET BBQ Bacon Onion Burger (tangy BBQ sauce, bacon, fried onions, cheese, lettuce and tomato)

IKE'S CORNER GRILL

WHY YOU SHOULD GO A classic Spartanburg spot, Ike's is the ultimate dive bar, serving up delicious burgers, hand-cut fries, their popular bologna sandwich and cold drinks for more than 50 years.

WHAT YOU SHOULD GET The Pimento Cheeseburger (with all the classic toppings and South Carolina pimento cheese)

NU-WAY LOUNGE & RESTAURANT

WHY YOU SHOULD GO Proudly Spartanburg's oldest bar, Nu-Way has been a staple for decades for its no-frills environment, delicious, overstuffed burgers and live music.

WHAT YOU SHOULD GET The World-Famous Redneck Burger. (Voted by Food Network as SC's Best Burger.)

THE BEACON DRIVE-IN

WHY YOU SHOULD GO A Spartanburg landmark, The Beacon has been featured on national TV more times than we can count for its "a-plenty" dishes, being served up for 70 years. If you have trouble finding it, just look for its signature red-and white-striped light tower, a, well, beacon of Spartanburg.

WHAT YOU SHOULD GET The Beacon Burger (signature double cheeseburger topped with mayo, lettuce, tomato and cole slaw)

THE TASTE OF Spartanburg

WHAT THE LOCALS LOVE

Spartanburg's mill town past and agricultural presence lend to gathering round tables for Southern comfort foods and farm fresh meals. Meats and threes and burgers joints are beloved staples of Spartanburg's dining scene.

YOU CAN'T TALK ABOUT FOOD in Spartanburg without talking about the Cribb family. Originating as peach farmers in the upstate area, the family fostered a reputation of festive gatherings, locally sourced ingredients and generous hospitality. Cribbs Kitchen, whose original location is a fixture of Downtown Spartanburg, recently brought its elevated southern cuisine to a second location in the Middle Tyger Area.

Another family name that is well known for feeding Spartanburg is Wade's. Celebrating 75 years and three generations of leadership, Wade's Restaurant began as a small grocery and lunch counter serving local workers hot home-cooked meals. Today, the landmark restaurant serves the same family recipes like hand-mixed yeast rolls, hand-breaded chicken, and southern-style veggies. Expect to see a line when you arrive, but don't worry, it moves fast and is always worth the wait.

For some of the best barbecue around, head to Landrum's Southside Smokehouse. Passed down from her father, Chef Sarah McClure offers her family's signature plates of smoked meat and threes, along with her own Cajun-style creations. Along with William Cribb, Sarah has been recognized as a South Carolina Chef Ambassador.

Talking of award-winning food, we need to talk about Spartanburg's best burgers. It's often debated whether Ike's or Sugar 'N Spice holds the crown, but Southern Living dubbed Nu-Way as having the best burger in South Carolina AND the third best bar in the South. This no-frills dive bar is the oldest restaurant and bar in Spartanburg, open since 1938.

If you haven't fallen for Southern food yet (and believe us, you will), there are plenty of international flavors to be found in Spartanburg. Reflecting our largest international presence, hearty German food is a favorite. Try The Deli Korner, a longtime family-owned sandwich shop, or Gerhard's Cafe, offering traditional fine dishes.

If you happen to be on the Mary Black Rail Trail during business hours, you might find your curiosity piqued by a pleasant aroma as you arrive at the trail's intersection with Marion Avenue. Follow your nose, and you will find yourself at one of Spartanburg's gems: Little River Roasting Co.

INSIDE YOU WILL FIND a coffee lover's paradise, with the smell of coffee from the roaster permeating the space and countless 150-pound burlap sacks of organically grown, fairly traded or farmer friendly coffee beans from around the world just waiting to be turned into a delicious cup of Joe. You can purchase fresh roasted coffee, coffee by-the-cup, and food from the cafe at the roasting facility, which is located at Fretwell, Spartanburg's newest trailside gathering space.

Spartanburg runs on Little River, which thankfully operates three more locations where you can order your favorite morning fix or afternoon pick-me-up.

The staple of the Little River empire is Little River Coffee Bar, located in the Masonic Temple in Downtown Spartanburg. This is the place where community comes together, where CEOs brush shoulders with local college students. The full-service Coffee Bar offers cozy seating, sidewalk seating, and is conveniently paired with the Hub City Bookshop.

If you're into the influencer lifestyle, we recommend heading to Little River's Pharmacy Coffee inside the historic Montgomery Building. The coffee shop was recently named one of the twelve most beautiful coffee shops in the world by TripSavvy. The prescribed drinks (a.k.a. seasonal specials), are just as beautiful as the surroundings.

On the go? Little River operates drive-thrus at Fretwell and on Spartanburg's Eastside.

FARM FRESH

Fruits & Veggies

For years Spartanburg County has been known as the sweet spot for peach lovers near and far. But peaches are just the tip of the food chain in Spartanburg. Farms in the area are producing an incredible abundance and variety of crops, most of which you can buy straight off the vine, tree, or bush, so it's easy to put the freshest product on your table.

Strawberry Hill A FAMILY TRADITION

Strawberry Hill

SEASONS:
Spring: Strawberries
Summer: Peaches, Blackberries
Fall: Pumpkins, Family-Friendly Corn Maze

They don't make them like Strawberry Hill USA very much anymore.

THIS FAMILY-OWNED FARM with generations of history can't be missed, as hundreds of American flags fly in the strawberry fields in remembrance of the founders of Cooley Peach Farms, who fought in World War II.

Family patriarch Perry Cooley purchased the land where Strawberry Hill currently sits in the early-1900s to farm cotton. In 1946, Perry made a deal with his son, Gene, that if Gene dug the holes, Perry would buy the peach trees.

Today, the farm is home to more than 800 acres of peach trees, totaling 42 varieties growing from mid-June to mid-September. A family tradition for 75 years, Strawberry Hill prides itself on its juicy, tree-ripened peach varieties and proudly claims that South Carolina is "the tastier peach state."

Along with peaches, Strawberry Hill grows, well, strawberries: 115 acres of strawberries to be exact, making it the largest strawberry farm in South Carolina. Their red, ripe strawberries serve as an annual reminder for many that warmer weather is on its way.

Strawberry Hill offers up bundles of its strawberries and peaches for use in at-home recipes, or just a delicious summertime snack. For anyone interested in tasting the—pardon the pun—fruits of Strawberry Hill's labor, visit The Shed, an old-timey peach shed that's now home to a market complete with locally-grown products, and a café serving up Southern favorites, and ice cream.

While there's no U-pick option at Strawberry Hill, its tremendous selection, quaint, welcoming vibes, and delicious café make it a must-visit.

A NEW SPIN

Drayton Mills

Drayton Mills

The award-winning Spartanburg Regional Healthcare System is administered out of the stunningly restored Beaumont Mill, which dates back to 1890.

Residents can live in history at the luxurious Mayfair Lofts and Arcadia Station Lofts in the former Mayfair Mills on the City's Westside. Arcadia Mill also houses the Mayfair Art Studios, a collection of studios and spaces for local creatives.

I F YOU HAVEN'T caught on by now, Spartanburg's former life as a textile town has an impressive influence over our culture. Instead of being demolished, Spartanburg has given a second life to many of our remaining mills, the most notable transformation being Drayton Mills. In fact, Drayton Mills Lofts and Marketplace represents the largest restoration project to date in South Carolina and received one of the state's highest honors for historic preservation.

Drayton Mills sits right on the edge of the City of Spartanburg, featuring an expansive multi-story spinning building erected in 1902, and a weaving building erected in 1928. Transformed into more than 200 units, residents of Drayton Mills Lofts enjoy original hardwood flooring, expansive mill windows and soaring ceilings.

The magic continues in Drayton Mills Marketplace, the non-residential portion of the revitalized textile mill campus. The lively marketplace is home to homegrown Bella Latte coffee shop, the refined Dray Bar & Grill, Pi-Squared Pizza, an event venue, a salon, a barbershop, a gym, a chiropractor, a doctors office, an eco-friendly giftshop, and even Converse University's e-sports team!

Wander the campus to find your favorite spot, or hop onto the paved Drayton Mill Trail to explore more of Spartanburg.

A REVOLUTIONARY Place

SPARTANBURG COUNTY takes its name from the Spartan Regiment, which formed in this area during the Revolutionary War to support the cause of American independence from Great Britain. South Carolina saw more Revolutionary War battles and skirmishes than any other colony except New Jersey – and Spartanburg is home to some significant sites. Spartanburg's city center Morgan Square and connected trail system The Dan both give ode to General Daniel Morgan, commanding Patriot General at the Battle of Cowpens, a turning point of the war and one of the most significant events in American History. Coming up on the 250th anniversary of America's victory, many of these revolutionary sites are now home to historical markers, trailheads or protected parks.

Thanks to its geographic size, Spartanburg County is home to many small towns and cities each offering their own unique character, charm, and history.

Boiling Springs

An ever-growing area, Boiling Springs is home to a plethora of residential options, local businesses, and popular nationally-owned companies.

THINGS TO DO

Fast-growing Boiling Springs is home to many nationally-owned shops and restaurants but features some great local spots, like New Groove Artisan Brewery, bringing new, innovative concepts to craft beer and Va-Du-Mar McMillan Park, where you can enjoy disc golf, recreational sports, and time outdoors.

Campobello

Campobello, the northern-most town in Spartanburg County, is home to rolling farmland and diverse residential options.

THINGS TO DO

At the northern end of Spartanburg County, Campobello offers great views of the Blue Ridge Mountains, and a quaint, small-town feel. Anyone looking for a weekend adventure can stop by Fat Ass Heifer Cider, where they're growing their own apples and raising their own cattle.

Chesnee

Chesnee and is a largely suburban area in stretching across the northeastern corner of Spartanburg County.

THINGS TO DO

Chesnee embraces its history, and you can find some of that thanks to Strawberry Hill USA's throwback, welcoming atmosphere where you can pick your own fruit or buy something freshly-picked. Outside Influence Brewing is new to the scene, fueled by a love of the outdoors and traditional beer styles.

Cowpens

Named for the Revolutionary War battle, Cowpens is a community that embraces history. It's home to a historic national battlefield and antique shopping.

THINGS TO DO

Soak in the area's Revolutionary War history at Cowpens National Battlefield or at the town's Veterans Memorial Park, pick up some fresh fruit from Abbot Farms' Fruit Market, and enjoy some local antique shopping at several small storefronts along the town's charming Main Street.

Greer

Greer, a quickly growing city situated between Spartanburg and Greenville, offers a lively, historic downtown.

THINGS TO DO

Check out one of the local restaurants in Downtown Greer, particularly at Cartwright Food Hall, which has something for everyone. Enjoy a stroll at Greer City Park and visit the Greer Hertiage Museum to learn more about the city and the surrounding area.

Pacolet

Greater Pacolet encompasses portions of three Upstate counties, and the area is well-known for its outdoor recreation opportunities thanks largely to the Pacolet River.

THINGS TO DO

Pacolet offers great options for the outdoors lover, from hiking along the Pacolet River Heritage Preserve, where the Pacolet River meets Lawson's Fork, to paddling and kayaking. The Heritage Preserve protects 258 acres of prehistoric soapstone outcrops with some uncommon plant species.

Roebuck

Roebuck, named for a Revolutionary War officer, is home to historic Walnut Grove Plantation and Dorman High School, one of the largest schools in SC.

THINGS TO DO

Along with growing residential options, Roebuck is home to historic Walnut Grove Plantation, showcasing pre-Revolutionary life in the area. Diners can head to several locally-owned establishments including Grille 221 and the Roebuck Fish Camp, open only on Thursdays, Fridays, and Saturdays.
